Boat Driver UPDATE

by Gene Fulkerson

The boat drivers confirmed for the season are Catherine Ohl, Paul Jackson, Mark Mathis, and Craig Henderson. Peter Catalano is still in the process of buying a boat and should be joining us in July. Jim Hess will fill in when needed and will continue to provide rides to the kids when they are in the mood.

I have received most of the boat driver sign up forms. I believe that Catherine, Jim and Mark should be out for the first trip. Paul is snowed under with presentations at work and will most like not make it out to the river until July.

I'm ready to water ski. What will you be doing? ■

Gene

Know Skier Signals

Hand signals are an extremely important form of communication while water skiing or wake boarding. A skier yelling instructions over the noise of the boat motor can be nearly impossible to hear. Unsuccessful communication with the skier can be dangerous.

Verbal communication can be used when the skier is still floating in the water before the boat accelerates. When the rope is tight and the handle is in the skier's hands, the driver waits on a signal from the skier if they are ready or not.

The people in the boat should yell, "Ready?" The skier should either say "Hit It" or "Wait." The words "Go" and "No" should not be used because they sound very similar.

The most common hand signals are—

Slower

Faster

Speed Okay

Other signals the skier & observer should know are—

- There are times when the driver wants the skier to stay directly behind the boat. This happens when there may be a lot of congestion or a potentially dangerous situation ahead. The observer should extend one arm straight in front of their body and move it up and down.
- A way to indicate to the skier that wakes are coming is to extend one arm straight out to the side and move it up and down.
- If the driver needs to turn the boat, the signal is given by rotating the forearm and hand around in wide circles. Skiers should get inside the wake for a safe turn.
- A skier should signal the driver they want to get back to the beach or dock by patting their head several times with their hand.
- If the skier wants to let go of the tow rope they should use a hand to simulate a "slice across the neck."
- When a skier has fallen, they should raise an arm to signal that they are okay.
- While a skier is waiting in the water for the boat to come back around after a fall or drop, the skier should raise a ski or wake board so that any approaching boats can see them in the water. ■

Summer Points Schedule

Ever since they put hook ups on the points at Park Moabi, we've had trouble scheduling Point 7 on a regular basis. Below is the schedule of the points we have to date. We are waited-listed for Point 7 on the trips were where are some place else. Keep this reference handy and be sure to double check the point assignment when Patricia calls you with your carpool assignments.

Boat Crew Instructions

How to be a Good Ski Boat Crew—

Here's how to do all the right things when on someone else's boat. Chances are, a good crew member will be invited for the coveted early morning glass run.

- Remove your shoes before stepping into the boat.
- Make sure there is no sand on your body, towel, vest, ski and anything else you bring into the boat.
- Don't bring any food or drinks, especially alcohol, on board unless you ask the boat owner first.
- Be sure there's a life jacket on board for you. If not, offer to go to the club trailer to get one.
- Pay attention to any instructions given by the boat driver.
- Keep the inside of the boat tidy, as clear as possible from tangled ropes, scattered equipment, clothing, suntan lotion, etc., to prevent tripping over something.
- Do not sit on the inboard engine cover.
- While someone is skiing, keep conversation to a minimum to prevent distracting the driver.
- Keep an eye on the ski rope at all times to make sure it does not make its way under the boat and get in the way of another boat that is passing.
- Help translate what a skier is trying to communicate to the boat driver. Learn the hand signals.
- Be prepared to grab any equipment out of the water from a skier. Be careful not to hit the boat when bringing it in.
- When you return to shore, offer to help clean up and be sure to take everything off you brought with you. ■

Summer is here...Water, Sun and Fun !

While childhood memories are often filled with carefree days of summer, emergency room doctors know it as "trauma season." Tragedies peak during the summer months because children are supervised less, have more free time and engage in more outdoor activities.

Water Safety Tips for Kids—

- If you do not know how to swim, always wear a life jacket.

If you fall, get pushed in or accidentally get near deep water, a life jacket can keep you floating on the surface until you can get help. Even strong swimmers should wear a vest in deep or rough water.

- Swim with a buddy.

You've probably heard this many times, but it's worth saying again. If you get into trouble, your friend can get help fast.

- Always go feet first into unfamiliar water.

There could be rocks or tree stumps in rivers and lakes. Even pools can be more shallow than they look. So always check out the depth of water before you dive in.

- If you see someone in trouble, signal the lifeguard or responsible adult.

Don't try to rescue the person yourself— you could get pulled under the water. Wave your hands over your head to signal the lifeguard or another adult.

- Don't EVER pretend you are drowning.

It wastes lifeguard's time and may take their attention away from someone who really needs help.

- It's a good idea to stay near people who know you and will notice if you are in trouble.

If you are with a group of people, have a check-in time and place to meet. Be sure you show up on time so you won't give the adults gray hairs.

- Don't let your friends tease you into something you don't want to do.

Even if all your friends are jumping in, don't do it if you are afraid or feel like you can't handle it. Knowing your limitations is nothing to be embarrassed about.

- Make sure you always follow the adult in charge's instructions!

- Wear sunscreen! ■

Online Safety Tips for Kids—

Kids, here's are some Safety Tips for you when you go online.

- Don't ever give out information about yourself like your last name, your phone number, where you live, or where you go to school.
- Never e-mail a picture of yourself to strangers.
- If somebody emails something to you that makes you uncomfortable, don't look around or explore. Tell your parents.
- Making plans to meet your internet buddies in real life is a really bad idea. People in real life can be very different from how they are online.
- Don't open up e-mails, files, or web pages that you get from people you don't know or trust.
- Don't ever give out your password, except to responsible adults in your family.
- Always follow your family's rules for the using the internet.
- Don't ever do anything that costs money. ■

Colorado Extreme Ski Law—

A bill poised to become law in Colorado would include cliffs and extremely steep slopes on the list of the inherent risks of the sport of skiing. The list already includes everything from trees and rocks to hydrants and lift towers to equipment in freestyle terrain parks such as rails, half-pipes, quarter-pipes, and fun boxes.

Under current law, resort operators are required to put up signs to warn skiers of obstacles, but once they do, those objects are no longer considered inherent risks and could be grounds for a lawsuit. That provision would be removed if this bill passes, thereby allowing resorts to warn skiers/boarders without increasing their liability.

To Bar or Not to Bar—

I have been posed with an interesting task—which states require the use of Safety Bars. On the internet, I found that VT, NY do while CA and CO do not. Even after Colorado had two lawsuits involving people falling off lifts without bars, Colorado lawmakers voted not to impose a law mandating the installation of bars.

My experience on lifts show that those of us in the west tend to use the bars only if they have foot rests. Anyone with comments or information on safety bars is invited to email me at ohl@acatmeowz.com.

Non-Stop Flights to Sun Valley—

Beginning June 27, 2004, Horizon Air will offer daily, non-stop flights to Sun Valley from Los Angeles! Now West Coast visitors can reach Sun Valley in just two hours and ten minutes aboard a roomy 70 seat Q400 known for its luxurious leg room and ample storage space. You can get your tickets by calling 1-800-547-9308 or on the web at www.horizonair.com.

Air France and KLM Merge—

Air France and KLM completed the last hurdle to the merger they agreed to last year. The merger, an Air France takeover in all but name, creates the largest airline in the world in terms of revenue. American, now second largest in revenue, remains the largest in terms of airline traffic.

While Air France and KLM now are one company, they are maintaining their separate airline identities. The airline could get even bigger as Alitalia still wants to join. Air France and KLM, however, are first requiring Alitalia to get its financial house in order, and that won't be easy.

Utah See Record Skier Days—

While it appears that skier numbers may not set any records this season, Utah was the exception. Ski Utah reported that its 13 ski areas saw a record number of skier days during the 2003-04 season. Official numbers totaled 3,386,141, a 7% increase over last season and 3% better than Utah's previous record.

Early and consistent snowfall throughout the season, combined with increased marketing efforts and resort infrastructure improvements, fueled the busiest season in Utah's 65-year skiing history.

Army Wants it Howitzers Back—

The U.S. Army is asking for the return of five howitzers that two Sierra Nevada ski resorts use to prevent avalanches, saying it needs the guns for the fighting in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Alpine Meadows and Mammoth Mountain are the only ski resorts in the nation using the 119-A howitzer. Resort officials said they spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to transport the guns, reimburse the Army for training, and build firing platforms. The resorts received the artillery pieces on loan from the Army and began using them last year for avalanche control. They have no problem returning them.

Other resorts have older 105 mm howitzers. The Forest Service said it is working to secure older howitzers for Mammoth and Alpine Meadows.

Montana's Legal Problems Persist—

Amid a building boom at Montana's Big Sky and Moonlight Basin Ski Resorts, the skiing community is in the middle of a couple of legal issues. Yellowstone Club developer Tim Blixseth sued the Forest Service late last year over ownership of the top of Lone Peak. Big Sky Resort, owned by Boyne USA, filed suit against Moonlight Basin in February, charging that the ski area's avalanche control devices endangered Big Sky employees and that the ski area was trespassing on Lone Peak. ■

Ski Areas Battle

Global Warming –

Sixty-seven U.S. ski resorts are urging U.S. Senators to pass the bipartisan global warming bill introduced by John McCain (R-Ariz.) and Joe Lieberman (D-Conn.).

Scientists predict that unchecked global warming will continue to cause shorter, more unpredictable winters with reduced snowfall. This could lead to widespread economic and environmental damage from more frequent water shortages and wildfires.

Squaw Keeps it Going Until Memorial Day–

With a snow pack of over eight feet on the upper mountain, the snow season is far from over at Squaw Valley USA. The resort is scheduled to remain open until Memorial Day.

Squaw is now offering pass holders from closed resorts a special $10 discount off adult all day lift tickets through the end of the season. Just present your 2003-2004 season pass in the Squaw Special Tickets office.

New Northstar Village–

Northstar-at-Tahoe, CA, will begin erecting its new alpine pedestrian village this summer. By the end of 2005, East West Partners, the developers for the project, plan to have the first phase of the village complete, including an ice rink, lodge and 100 residential units.

That is the beginning of a 10- to 15-year rejuvenation for the resort that proposes an additional 1,450 residential units, a 255-room hotel, employee housing and an amphitheater which is now winding its way through the local approval process.

Crested Butte Expands–

The recent sale of Crested Butte Mountain Resort, CO, to Tim and Diane Mueller of Triple Peaks LLC not only brought new owners, but a new ski area permit and new boundary lines.

The most significant change in the new permit is the inclusion of the entire Teocalli Bowl in the new ski area boundary. The new permit boundary also includes the "Fourth Bowl" east of the existing Third Bowl area and Snodgrass Mountain.

Big White Expands–

Big White Ski Resort Ltd. recently announced a massive summer construction project scheduled for completion prior to the start of the 2004-2005 winter season.

$127.9 million is the total value that will be spent on improvements and will include two new chair lifts, a state-of-the-art ski and snowboard terrain park, a new on-mountain day lodge including viewing deck, two new grooming machines, and luxury accommodation bringing the bed base total to over 14,000 beds.

Most exciting will be the six new intermediate and advanced runs expanding the resort's skiable terrain by 200 acres in the Gem Lakes area.

Horizon Air has announced larger planes to service Kelowna from Seattle. The Q400, 70 seater aircraft will effectively double the passenger capacity of Saturdays and Sundays.

Colorado Resorts Generate $2 Billion in Tourism–

According to Colorado Ski Country USA, Colorado's ski industry generates $2 billion annually (about a quarter of the state's $7 billion tourism revenues) and provides 31,000 jobs (14% of the state's tourism employment). Much of this revenue is generated by out-of-staters.

Winter Park Ski Jumps–

Members of a grass-roots group calling itself the Winter Park Youth Programs Association are incensed by resort developer Intrawest's decision to scrap ski jumping at the Denver-owned ski area.

Opponents are asking that the mayor's office intervene to force a public meeting to save the nearly 65-year-old jumps, which have been used to train several Olympians.

Resort management believes keeping or relocating the large jumps doesn't make financial sense. Opponents say the facility is an important part of Winter Park's heritage.

Snowmass Expansion–

Snowmass is on the verge of some very big upgrades. But there's a catch, no Base Village, no on-mountain improvements.

Improvements include an eight-passenger gondola, a six-pack, an open-air cabriolet and upgrades to numerous other lifts. ■

Why Bormio—

Bormio's origins are linked to its thermal waters, which have been renowned for their curative powers since ancient times. The nine springs are mentioned in Roman documents dating back to the first century AD. Today the tradition continues in modern thermal baths, most notable being the Bagni Vecchi baths.

The resort's long history has given it a rich collection of architectural treasures which make it a very interesting place to stay. Centered around the busy Via Roma, Bormio's old buildings are decorated with frescoes. It is here in the old town where you will get a taste of true Italian life, especially in the evenings. Here, a maze of small lanes zig and zag in all directions where you can shop 'til you drop.

Bormio's 5,879' vertical drop is one of the longest in Italy. Bormio at 10,000' is not a vast inter-linked skiing domain, however it's a great place for those who love to get to the top of the mountain and cruise descents of up to 9 miles down to the resort. The lower two thirds of the slopes are forested and serviced by snow making. Bormio, chosen to host the 2005 World Cup Championships, is part of the Alta Valtellina Lift Pass system with access to the slopes of Livigno, Santa Caterina and San Colombano.

Trip price, with taxes and based on an exchange rate of 0.81, is actually $100 less than last year's trip and includes lift tickets. Also for the first time, we can offer air from San Diego, Las Vegas and other airports. ■
